The Independent reports that a Minister, not many miles from Catlettsburg, in conducting a funeral service had been instructed by the family of the deceased to give an invitation to those present to pass around the casket and view the remains at the close of the service. When the time came to make this announcement, he could think of no word to express his meaning excepting "corpse." Knowing how the use of this word at such a time grates on the ears of many sensitive people, he hesitated to use it, and became greatly embarrassed. At length, however, an inspiration came to him, and he announced, much to the dismay of his prohibition hearers, "The friends may now pass around the bier!"

BRYAN PROPHECIES

A FEW THAT HE MADE WHEN HE RAN FOR PRESIDENT BEFORE.

Louisville Evening Post.

Mr. Bryan in 1896 preached to the Democrats the gospel of a new dispensation. He came to a people disturbed and in great distress. Hundreds of thousands of willing workers were idle. Business was depressed. The actual condition of industry created grave apprehension of even greater disaster.

Mr. Bryan had an unquestioning belief in himself and in his theories. Paine himself was not more sure of the gospel he preached than Mr. Bryan was certain that free silver was the only possible cure for our admitted ills.

The very confidence expressed by Mr. Bryan inspired confidence in others. Mr. Bryan never hesitated in 1896 to say what he believed. He never refused to go on record with his predictions. He was as much a prophet as he was a law-giver.

Four years have passed and his prophecies have been tested by time and experience. In order that the people who listen to him now may have some test of his value as a prophet; in order that they may prove all things that he says and hold fast to those which are good, we have compiled a number of his prophecies of 1896, regarding the gold standard, the truth of which the readers themselves may determine.

It would have increased the purchasing power of the gold dollar.—Madison Square Garden speech.

It would have been as certain to make prices fall as a stone is to fall when it is thrown into the air.—Newton (Ia.) speech.

It would have increased the debts of the people and lessened their ability to pay them.—Baltimore speech.

It would have made times harder and harder.—Same speech.

It would have starved everybody except the money-changers and the money-owners.—New Haven (Conn.) speech.

It would have transferred the bread which one man earns to another man who had not earned it.—Hartford (Conn.) speech.

It would have made the rich richer and the poor poorer.—Newark (O.) speech.

It would have decreased the number who are happy and increased the number who are in distress.—Same speech.

It would have destroyed the hope of the toiling masses.—Minneapolis (Minn.) speech.

It would have destroyed the opportunity to work.—Same speech.

It would have increased the number of idle men.—Same speech.

It would have decreased the volume of standard money.—Same speech.

It would have encouraged the hoarding of money.—Hornellsville, N. Y., speech.

It would have made it more and more difficult for the farmer to live.—Madison Square Garden speech.

It would have injured the wage-earner.—Same speech.

It would have compelled depositors in savings banks to withdraw their deposits to pay living expenses.—Same speech.

It would have made employment less certain.—Same speech.

It would have discouraged enterprise.—Same speech.

It would have paralyzed industry.—Same speech.

It would have lessened the ability of savings banks to collect their assets.—Same speech.

It would have lessened the salaries of those engaged in business occupations, and would have lessened the permanency of such salaries.—Same speech.

It would have injured those who have permanent investments in railroad stocks and other enterprises.—Same speech.

It would have injured or destroyed the manufacturers of agricultural implements, wagons and buggies.—Same speech.

It would have lessened the ability of the masses to buy goods, and thereby would have lessened the number of commercial traveling men.—Indianapolis speech to traveling men.

It would have made it impossible for husbands and wives to pay off the mortgages on their homes.—Minneapolis, Minn., speech to ladies.

It would have made it necessary to advocate the closing up of our public schools.—Monmouth, Ill., speech.

It would have made it more profitable to loan money or to hoard it than to invest it in enterprise or property.—Syracuse, N. Y., speech.

It would have made dearer money, cheaper property, harder times, more people out of work, more people destitute, more people desperate, more crime.—Minneapolis speech to ladies.

It would have lowered the standard of civilization in this country.—Madison Square Garden speech.

It would have been writing the future in blood crushed out of gold.—Erie, Pa., speech.

There is no more sure test of the truth of a theory than the test which time supplies.

Rev. Robert Graham Frank, who was elected in June last to the Pastorate of the First Christian Church at Philadelphia, has entered upon his duties.
